

Lavandula angustifolia · Lamiaceae

Lavender

Steeped in calm

Lavender Tea

INGREDIENTS

- 1 teaspoon dried lavender buds (culinary)
- 1 cup hot water (just below a boil)
- 1 teaspoon raw honey, after cooling (optional)

METHOD

1. Bring water just below a boil — steam, but no bubbles yet.
2. Pour the hot water over the dried lavender buds.
3. Cover and steep for 5 minutes.
4. Strain out the buds.
5. Cool to a child-safe temperature before serving. Stir in honey if you like.

Vovó says:

Smell the steam. Lavender quiets the mind first; tea quiets the body.

SAFETY:

Lavender is in the mint family. Test on the arm first for skin sensitivity. Use food-grade buds only.

For You formed my inward parts; You wove me in my mother's womb.
