

Chamomile

Matricaria chamomilla

Matricaria recutita

Asteraceae (the daisy family)

A watercolor illustration of chamomile leaves and flowers, with green leaves and small white flowers, framing the text.

CHAMOMILE

Matricaria chamomilla

Properties

- Calms the body (gentle nervine)
- Settles the tummy (digestive)
- Eases swelling and redness (anti-inflammatory)

Preparation

Tea — steep dried chamomile flowers in hot water for 5 minutes, then cool.

Chamomile honey — stir cooled tea into raw honey.

Identify by

- Tiny daisy flowers — white petals around a yellow center button.
- Lacy, feather-like leaves.
- Smells like apples when you crush a leaf.

Caution

Chamomile is in the daisy family. If you are allergic to ragweed, ask a grown-up first.
